It's That Time Again

September 7, 1993

Shiny, newly waxed floors that have been fairly untraveled for a few months are gradually filling with parents, students, faculty, and staff members. Most faces are friendly, blank, or expectant. Students know which class to attend first period, except for about fifty students in the cafeteria who do not have a schedule yet. The bells ring, but not methodically because the schedule has not been entered into the computer system. Students cringe at the thought of a seven period day, even though for most people there are the same number of academic classes and a RISE class, or study hall during third period.

Students such as Jay Clarke, Carlton Woodis, Jason Wells, Richard Deberry, Vernard Hinton, and Jason Williams who formally attended Manor High School and Mavis Gaskins, Erica Webb, Shawn Branch, Beth Jordan, Steven Matousek, and Hannah Dancy who attended the former Wilson High School (which was renamed Hunt-Mapp and converted into a middle school) wonder what I. C. Norcom students and teachers will be like. They gradually become familiar with the layout of the school - the fact that the library is on the second floor and the fact that their lockers may or may not be near any of their classes. They recognize a few teachers like Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Batchelor, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Bathe, Mrs. DeChabert; and some of the students have made some friends through the band, cheering, or football, all of which started before school. Students who are part of the new Magnet program and students in "X" and Honors classes wait expectantly to hear when their projects will be collected. Between classes, students share the latest gossip and converse about the latest styles, teachers, tough classes, and funny experiences.

Teachers exchange information about bell schedules, assembly schedules, RISE procedures, and classroom rules and regulations. Mr. Gordon and Mrs. Bell explain to their third period students that yes, SAT Prep is considered a class and no, students cannot attend other functions or see any other teacher during third period. Mrs. Sheehan, Coach Holloway, Mrs. Short, and Coach Langston explain to their ninth and tenth graders that they will have to dress out for gym. Other teachers explain lockout procedures to their students, while students reminisce about previous lockouts and vow to make it to class on time. Mr. Sykes and Ms. Martin, administrators that are new to Norcom, scope the hallways and escort students to classes. Dr. Jeter and Mr. Gibson pass out the student handbooks and give orientation.

It's about time for people to get on the ball. It's about time for the students from all over Portsmouth to pull together as one body here at I.C. Norcom.

Mrs. Bathe helps a student in her Spanish class. Mrs. Bathe taught Spanish at Wilson High School last year.

Karen Coltrane is locked out of sixth period. Lockout was a plan by the administration to encourage students to get to class on time.

Dr. Jeter stands on the lawn of I. C. Norcom High School. Dr. Jeter has been the principal at Norcom for three years.

I. C. Norcom began implementing its Magnet Program, which involved programs across the curriculum. This was Norcom's first year to have a Magnet Program.

Spare Time

Students at Norcom find interesting things to do during their spare time. Sometimes they just kick back and relax, chill, and talk with friends. After school a lot of the students gather around "The Tree". People get together and socialize.

They also spend time studying, supporting the athletic teams, gossiping, joking, thinking, and talking about their loved ones. Students of I. C. Norcom take into consideration that this school is a historical site. The school is named for the principal of the former High Street School, Mr. Israel Charles Norcom, Sr., who grew up in North Carolina, matriculated at Yale University, Hampton Institute, and the University of Virginia. The city's first high school for African Americans was named after Norcom.

There is a compass on the floor in the middle of the hallway on the first floor. It is special because it is where a previous principal of I. C. Norcom High School, Mr. Edwards directed the student "traffic". No one steps on the "heart" of the school. Students walk around it and ask visitors to walk around it also.

Part of the student life is continuing the proud tradition of Norcom High School. The alumni association and the parent organizations are very active in raising money for student needs and in providing the community support that the school needs.

In addition to having school spirit, Greyhounds are also very active in sports and other extra-curricular activities. They participate in extracurricular activities, which consume a lot of time and energy. Students who are involved in the sports program spend hours of their time preparing to compete and competing. In addition to their sports and extra-curricular activities, students are expected to come to school prepared to learn.

Greyhounds work, own cars, and keep up with the latest fashions, slang, and fads. Some students are released from school early so that they can go to work. Some students work within the school either in the office, the library, or the guidance office. Students use their money to buy clothes, cover expenses, or pay for their cars.

As future taxpayers, students are also concerned about issues such as the closing of the schools and changing of school names, elected officials, and the environment.

Students at I. C. Norcom have many ways to spend their spare time. While many are involved in school activities, others have to juggle work and school and social events. Students and staff members are very proud of the rich heritage of the school, and they strive to continue the tradition of excellence.

William Boone, a senior, goes to his car. He left the school after seventh period, at 2:00.

David Brown, Qiana Sessoms, Shirley Kingsbur, Twe' Avant, Ambakisy Bolden, Tanika Hooks, and Latoya Wagner cheer during a pep rally. They showed their support for the football team.

Donica Adams and Monica Jones represent the typical Greyhound fashion. Each wore a leather jacket, which was a popular fashion statement.

Mr. Earls presents Dr. Jeter with a check from the Band Parents Association. They helped to defray the cost of the student handbooks which were introduced to the students and teachers this year.

Greyhound Fashion

Going to school is more than just sitting in a desk and learning. School is a place to go to participate in activities, interact with friends, and most of all, see who's wearing what.

This year many of the girls were wearing a new style of bell bottoms, clog shoes, and knit vests. The fashion for the guys did not change very much. Guys continued to wear their Guess jeans, Polo shirts, and Timberland boots.

The '90s hairstyles were worn by almost every young lady at I. C. Norcom High School. The most popular styles were flat irons, roller sets, wraps, pincurls, push waves, buns, french rolls, "sister curls", and braids. The young men wore close cuts, dreds, afros, and shaven heads.

Keeping up with the latest styles, spending time shopping, and taking time to develop that certain look were all what Greyhounds did in their spare time.

Some of the styles this year are the pant suits, different colored jeans, leather jackets, and pep t-shirts. Tamiko Scott wore a pin-striped, wide-legged pants suit. Antonio Thomas sported the black "Guess" jeans, leather coat and pepe t-shirt.

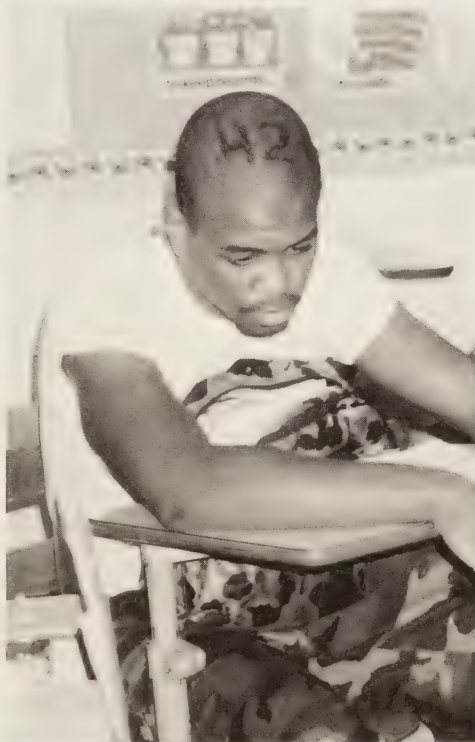

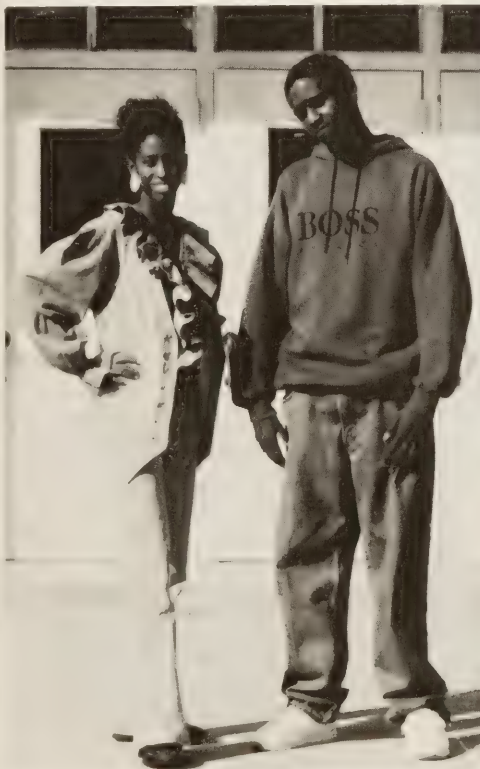

Another popular style is the blouse with ruffles around the neck and cuffs of the blouse. Melba Newby illustrated this style by wearing her ruffled blouse and "Guess" jeans.

Some students combine several hairstyle ideas to form their own unique hairstyle. Jamie Cherry wore a combination hairstyle of lifted finger waves and roller set curls.

Alecia Thomas is wearing another combination hairstyle. She wore a flat iron wrap with pin curls.

David Turner shows his dedication to football by wearing his jersey number, 42, as part of his haircut. Several members of the football team sported similar haircuts at the beginning of the year.

Andra Bond and Vernicka Reynolds are wearing stylish clothes. Andra wore a "Boss" sweatshirt, "Guess" jeans, and classic Reeboks. Vernicka wore a ruffle jean blouse, a jean vest, and jean bellbottoms that buttoned down the leg.

"Whuz up!" Bettina Smith is asking a question that most people use to greet each other with. The phrase was used to express concern or to ask, "What's going on?"

Wearing her nice outfit accessorized with gold, Donica Adams is "G'd up". The phrase was used to describe someone as dressed up and looking good.

Letisha Jiminez, Latoya Wagner, Jamal Whitehurst, and Ernest Cross are "chillin'" in the cafeteria. There were three lunches to chill in.

Speaking in a different language

SHOOTIN GAME

The students at I. C. Norcom express themselves in many interesting ways. To communicate with each other, Greyhounds use gestures, body movements and words.

The most popular way to communicate this year is through slang. Slang has become a substitute for proper words because students use slang terms and it's easier for them to understand each other.

Slang words can have many different meanings. For example, "Yo!" can mean anything from "hello" to "what?". "Kickin' it" can mean anything from relaxing to trying to get someone's phone number. "G'd up" means to be dressed up and looking good. The students also give nicknames to places located in the school. For instance, the room in which In-School-Suspension is held is known as "Da Clink".

Slang is an everchanging fad and has become one of the important ways for the I. C. Norcom High School students to communicate.

Interrupting an important conversation, Nicole King gets a "mute" by Shani Clarke and Chanda Yarbrough. This word and gesture was a more comfortable way for friends to tell each other to be quiet.

If something out of the ordinary is seen, students may react in many ways. Carlos Skinner replied, "What in the world!"

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Personalized License Plates and Cars

At I.C. Norcom High School many students either own their own cars or drive a family car to school. They drive small cars, large cars, luxury cars, sports cars, etc. To some students, a car can be a status symbol; to others, it could be nothing more than just a means of transportation.

Some students, and some teachers own cars with personalized license plates. A personalized license plate can have a name printed on it, a phrase, or a description or nickname. Many people choose personalized license plates that describe them or reveal an interest the owner may have. Other plates have a person's name, nickname, or a phrase that the owner likes.

Whether they own a car with a personalized license plate or have a car with a regular license plate, students and teachers find their way to school by 7:25 in the morning, and some enjoy showing off their cars at school.

Kim Taylor sits on the back of her Toyota Corolla. She was accompanied by her friend Renetria Barnes.

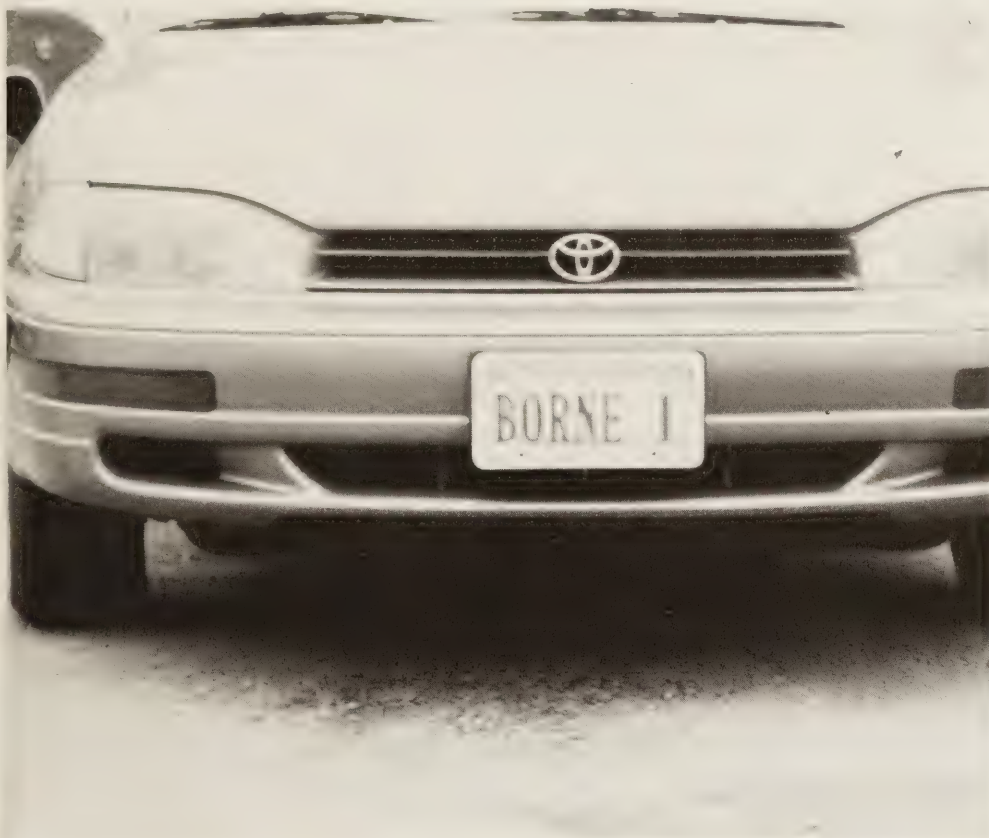

Latrice Griffin pulls off after school in her Pontiac Grand Am. She also had a personalized license plate.

Mrs. Borne's Toyota Camry is parked in the school parking lot. Her license plate read "Borne-1".

Latrice Griffin backs her Pontiac Grand Am out of the school parking lot. Her license plate read "4Latrice" because it was a present for her.

Deihdre Gregory owns a Chevrolet Corsica. She was a senior this year.

Richard Hatcher stops after school at Rally's. He drove a Mazda.

Pep Rallies

The first pep rally this year brought the usual excitement, dancing and cheers that accompany such an event.

Denise Stanton, who has attended Norcom for three years, said, "The first pep rally was filled with school pride and school spirit." Shannon Williams responded, "The first and last pep rallies were stupendous".

Having an undefeated state champion football team helped school spirit. The cheerleaders and band added "hype" to the pep rallies. The band played songs such as "Cry No More" and "Boogie Nights", as well as the song known as "the butterfly song" by the students.

The alumni association also contributed to the success and excitement at the last pep rally, before the state championship game. In addition to the alumni, city leaders and school administrators traveled to Norcom to wish the Greyhounds good luck.

The last pep rally, in which everyone came to encourage the school, was a great way to end the year.

Tanesia Mack and other students cheer for the football team and support the school. Seniors were especially excited since each pep rally brought them closer to graduation.

Mr. Sanford, president of the Alumni Association, addresses students, guests, and parents. He celebrated the football team's accomplishments with the student body.

Tonya Hinton demonstrates her pride in her school. She wore maroon and grey ribbons, as did many of the students.

BURY THE SA

The football team makes its entrance. Coach Langston prepared his players mentally and presented them to the student body during the pep rallies.

The I. C. Norcom High School Marching Band performs for students, faculty, and staff during the pep rally. "The Norcom Rock" was always a crowd-pleaser.

The Varsity cheerleaders cheer for the crowd. Lashanta Edwards and Karen Coltrane were two of the varsity cheerleaders.

Aric Cooper's nickname is "Boss". He was nicknamed that in elementary school because he used to be a bully.

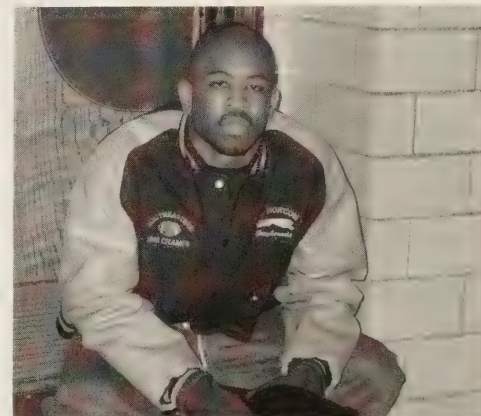

Sharonetta Rogers's nickname is "Netta". Her nickname came from the last part of her name.

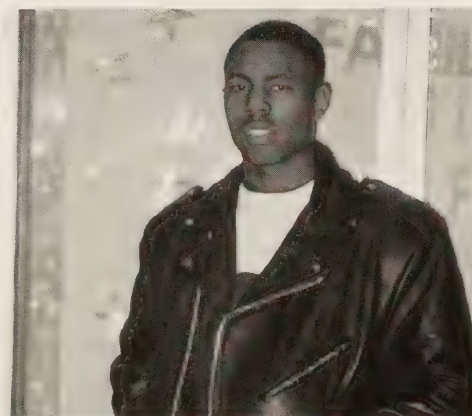

Leroy Coker is nicknamed L. C. His nickname came from the first letters of his first and last names.

Dajuan Newsome is nicknamed "Manequin". He was given his nickname because his skin is smooth.

Kevin McMillan's nickname is "Lil Herb". He was given his nickname because his older brother's name is Herb.

David Turner's nickname is "Lil Dave". His nickname came from the first syllable in his first name.

Ernest Cross's nickname is "Pooh". He was nicknamed Pooh because he looks like a teddy bear.

Barry Burns's nickname is "Pretty B". His nickname came from his smooth skin and curly hair.

Tamiko Scott's nickname is "Meko". Her nickname came from the last two syllables of her first name.

Nicknames

Have you heard any of these nicknames around school lately? Coogie. Toy. NeNe. Tay. Boo. Tuff. Melboo. E-Man. Nesh. Maine. Rita Bodeen. Smooth. Ant.

There are several people whose nicknames are similar to their own names. For example, Tanesia Mack's nickname is "Tee", and Anthony Hawkins's nickname is "Hawk".

Other peoples' nicknames come from their appearance. Quenell Saunders, whose nickname is "Squeaky", squinches his eyes. Marte' McCall, who resembles a bear, has the nickname "PoohBear". Christopher Goad, with his long, brown hair, resembles a character from a cartoon; thus, his nickname is "Shaggy".

Some people even get their nicknames from initials in their names like Ronald "P. J." Porter Jr. and Douglas "D. J." Bryant, Jr., both of whom have a nickname based on their first and last initials.

Other people have nicknames from special things that have happened to them. Jerronne Coleman got his nickname "Scooty" from his great aunt.

The nicknames around Norcom are usually generated from names, appearances, initials, and experiences.

Michael Alston's nickname is "Dump Truck". His nickname came from one of his coaches in Little League Football.

Andra Bond and LaTonya Vinson both have nicknames based on a part of their names. Andra's nickname was "Dra Bond", and LaTonya's nickname was "Tonya".

Homecoming 1993

As is a long standing Norcom tradition, days before the homecoming game, the festivities began and started the Homecoming celebration. This year, two weeks prior to the actual elections of the Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior grade level representatives, the campaign started and posters went up. These posters encouraged people to vote for different candidates.

Everyone talked of who they would vote for and why they would vote for these candidates. Most of the student body was excited because the students running for positions were friends of theirs. Others were excited because the football team was going into the game undefeated. The contestants were excited and nervous about going up in front of the whole school.

The football players were confident. They were facing the Great Bridge Wildcats.

The week before Homecoming, there was an assembly to introduce the contestants to the student body. Contestants were Keyona Harrison and Nekar Scott, who won Mr. and Miss freshman. For Mr. and Miss sophomore, there were Derek Outland and Brandi Smith. The junior contestants were Michael Manning Monicia Jones. The senior contestants were Rachel Stubbs, Shawnese Preuitt, Karen Coltrane, Timothy Morgan, Tamala Harper, Latonya Young, Sonia Killebrew, Trevor Hunter, and Arthdale Brown.

The theme of the Homecoming assembly was "Cherish the Moment". Entertainment was provided by Carlos Skinner, who sang "Superstar".

During Homecoming, Karen Coltrane was crowned Homecoming Queen. Trevor Hunter was crowned Homecoming King.

The football team slaughtered the Wildcats with a 27-0 victory. That was the perfect end to a perfect week.

The football team gets ready to execute another terrific play. During the Homecoming game the football team defeated the Great Bridge Wildcats.

Trevor Hunter and Karen Coltrane are presented as Homecoming King and Queen during half time. The two gained this title after two weeks of hard work and stiff competition.

Time to Hit the Books

At I. C. Norcom High School, Academics plays a major role in the curriculum of the students. From Geometry to Chemistry to Drama — each class is considered as important as the next. The students work hard and the teachers give them as much support as possible, all in the hopes of achieving success. There are many programs at I.C. Norcom to help students achieve the success they desire. One such program is the Magnet Program.

The Magnet Program, as described in the overview, is “designed to prepare students for the most rigorous mathematics, science and technology courses offered at universities and colleges.”

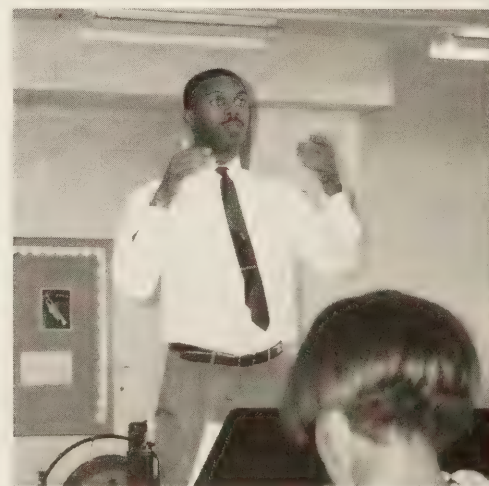

Several teachers at Norcom instruct students in the Magnet Program. In the mathematics department, for example, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Baker, and Mr. Pennington are Magnet teachers. In the science department, Ms. Buck, Mr. Borick, Mrs. Redd, and Mr. Stephenson are Magnet teachers. Mrs. Swinton and Mrs. DeChabert teach Magnet English. Magnet Social Studies is instructed by Mrs. Zachos, and Mr. Leathers heads the Technology Department.

What separates the Magnet classes from the regular school curriculum? Mrs. Gunter, who heads the program, explained that the classes are more demanding than the “normal” classes. Also, the Magnet students do things that the other students do not do, like visit the Eastern Virginia Medical Center and Old Dominion University and interdisciplinary projects.

And the students themselves, what do they think? When asked about his feelings for the program, Senior Don Goad had good things to say such as, “It’s fun. You really learn a lot.”

Whether students are part of the Magnet Program or not, they always have to set aside some time to hit the books.

Mr. Davenport warms up his band class for practice. The band won several awards at competitions.

Letoree Everett and Joy Arrington work together on an assignment in Mrs. Welsh's English class. Many teachers used cooperative learning techniques in their classroom teaching.

Mr. Leathers performs an experiment with his Technology class. These first hand experiments helped students to see and predict outcomes themselves.

Jason Earls records observations of a liquid being heated in a beaker. Many experiments, such as this, were conducted in Mrs. Key's classes.

Academics

Time and a Half

The community that surrounds I. C. Norcom High School is very diverse. There are several tourist attractions within close proximity to the school. Jamestown, Williamsburg, Chrysler Hall, Portside, Waterside, the Commodore dinner theatre, Willet Hall, and several shopping malls are in or near Portsmouth.

The Greyhound band has been recognized statewide. The marching band was asked by Lieutenant Governor Beyer to play at the inauguration. The band has also been awarded several trophies for its performances at competitions. Before they take the field, they are called "The Pride of Portsmouth".

The State Champion football team, coached by Coach Langston, has also been recognized and celebrated by people all over the city and state. At the pep rally preceding the last game of the season, alumni football players traveled from all over the state to see their alma mater win the state title. Schools from all over the city wrote congratulatory cards and sent messages to the team and the coach to acknowledge their achievement.

The students of Norcom have many things to do on weekends and holidays because of the suburban surroundings.

Because of the school and its community, students have a time and a half.

Mayor Gloria Webb encourages the football team before the big game. The mayor wished the Greyhounds good luck.

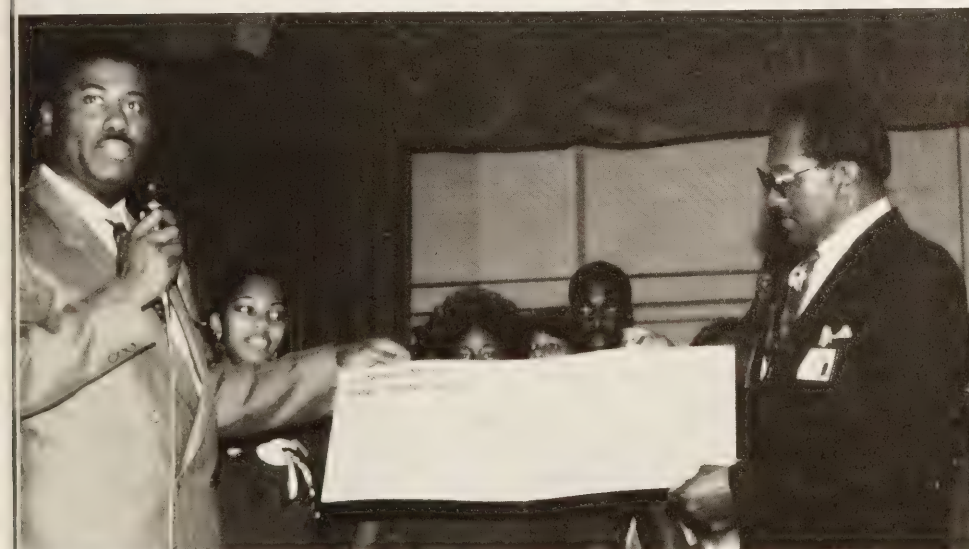

This is a view of Norfolk taken from the Portsmouth Seawall. Norfolk and Portsmouth are separated by water which can be crossed by ferry.

Dr. Jeter and Superintendent Dr. Trumble shake hands. Dr. Trumble visited Norcom to congratulate the football team on its victories and encourage it to win the state title.

Mr. Earls hands a check to Dr. Jeter from the I. C. Norcom High School Band Parents Association. The money was raised to help pay for student handbooks in which students could keep track of assignments and events in order to be better students.

The Community

The Portsmouth community united to wish the Greyhounds good luck in its bid for the State Football Champions title. Attending a pre-game pep rally were Portsmouth Mayor Gloria Webb, Portsmouth School Superintendent Dr. Trumble, former Norcom Principal Mr. Randall, alumni President Mr.

Sanford, and members of the 1963 Norcom State Champion football team.

Former Norcom Principal Mr. Randall addresses the Norcom student body. His last year at Norcom was the seniors' freshman year, and they gave him a warm greeting.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Moore are recognized at the pep rally. They graduated from Norcom.

Mr. Snead attends the pep rally with Mr. E. Jones. They stood and were recognized as members of the last Norcom state championship football team.

Dr. Trumble talks to the student body before the big game against Langley. Dr. Trumble helped to cheer for the football team and to help the players get "psyched up" for the game.

The student council association of Woodrow Wilson High School congratulates the football team on its success. The community showed its support of Norcom by sending cards to the school and having a parade in downtown Portsmouth.

Time For Some Action

Sometimes students feel a desire to succeed on the field or the court as well as in the classroom. Norcom athletes strive to be champions. This year, there were many outstanding Norcom athletes. Terry Ricks finished his high school career with the Tidewater area record in rushing. Several other football players earned state honors as the football team gained recognition throughout the district, region, state, and country. David Turner, Jay Clarke, Jeronne Coleman, Terril Glover, Larry Staton, Lamont Smith, and Aric Cooper led the Greyhounds to a 13-0 record. Other outstanding players for the Greyhounds were Reggie Demps, Douglas Bryant, Damon Ricks and Harold Dubose. Don Goad and Jason Earls persevered through the cross country season to make an impressive showing in district meets.

I.C. Norcom had many other students of the senior class involved in athletic activities. Don Goad, Channing Swinton, and Joseph Stevenson were seniors on the varsity wrestling team. Seniors on the varsity baseball team included David Turner, James Rodgers, Craig Patillo, and Clinton Jennings. Those seniors who ran track were Harold Dubose, Kevin MacMillan, Larry Staton, Terry Ricks, and Terril Glover. Some of the talented players on boys' basketball team this year were Jay Clarke, Wellington Britt, Jason Taylor, and Clinton Williams. Shelby Boyd, Tiffany Ratcliff, Taneshia Mack, and Andrea Byrd were some of the talented players on the girls' basketball team. Many others seniors participated in athletic activities and achieved a great deal for their efforts in representing I.C. Norcom in various sports.

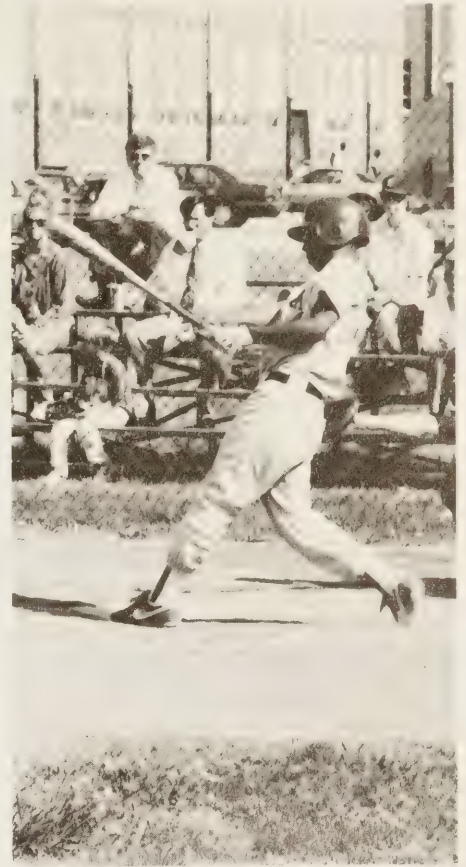

Constance Marshall serves the ball to her opponent. After running track for four years, she decided to take up tennis, too.

Wide receiver Larry Staton carries the ball in the game against the Western Branch Bruins. Norcom Greyhounds beat the Bruins 14-7 for one of the closest victories of the season.

D.J. Johnson shows off some of his batting skills during a home game. Norcom's baseball coach, Mr. Williams, organized a baseball clinic in February to prepare his players for the season.

The cross country runners start their race. Some of Norcom's best runners this year were Jason Earls, Don Goad, and Marquis Perkins.

Football

The football squad for the 1993 school year was undefeated. While there were a few underclassmen on the team, the majority of the players were seniors.

The coaching staff consisted of eight coaches. The head coach, Joe Langston, worked with Coach Sam Warren, who was in charge of the offense squad, Coach Vincent Pugh, who was in charge of special teams, Coach Price, who worked with the receivers, Coach K. Rogers, who was the offensive line coach, and Coach Herman Terry and Coach Michael Shambly, both of whom worked with the communications.

The captains on the football team were Terril Glover, Larry Staton, Jay Clarke, David Turner, Emanuel Jackson, Reggie Demps, Antonio Ricks, and Jerronne Coleman.

Most players had great things to say about being a team member in 1993. Rudy Howard, a junior, said that playing for Norcom took him back to his little league days, because everyone was friendly and the players and coaches got along well. He also said that playing on the team has taught him how to think while he is in difficult situations.

Quarterback Roderick Richardson said that he took advantage of the after school study hall that Coach Langston mandated for his players. Richardson also explained the inspiration for most of the players. "The team (was) striving for their goal of winning the state championship for Coach Langston and for Coach Rogers."

Coach Rogers was in a serious car accident during the summer and suffered injuries to his rib cage and hip. His tragic accident inspired the players to play their very best. They also called Coach Rogers before every game.

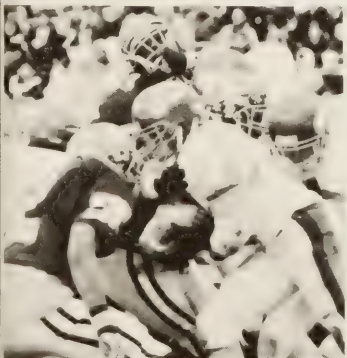

Antonio Ricks outwits the Langley defense for another gain. He ran in three touchdowns during the game.

Jay Clarke runs a reverse play to mid field. He also kicked the extra point.

Baseball and Softball

The varsity baseball team finished the 1993 season with wins over Lake Taylor (2-1) and Manor (3-2). Coach Williams led a baseball camp in January to teach and reinforce basic techniques and strategies.

Coach Pennington and the varsity softball team also completed a year of building and reinforcing basic skills. Players enjoyed competing with other district teams and improving their performances.

For both teams, most players were underclassmen, so the time spent practicing and preparing was an investment for future years.

Girls' Basketball

The Lady Greyhounds had a young team this year, for the most part. The starters were seniors Shelby Boyd, Tiffany Ratcliff, Tanesia Mack, Andrea Byrd, and one junior, Jennifer Gainey. Shelby was consistently the high scorer, with an average of 16.5 points per game. The second leading scorer was Tiffany Ratcliff, with an average of 14.3 points per game.

Coach Danny Hill was the head coach of the girls' team.

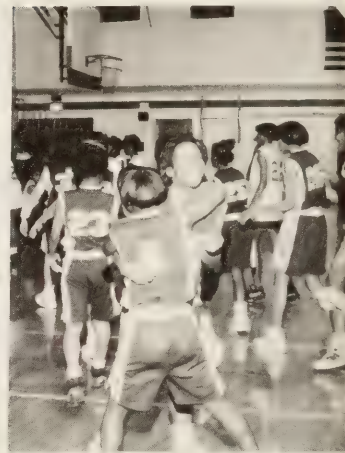

He worked with five sophomores and one junior. Since some of the girls transferred from the former Wilson High School team, the team had to practice working together.

Senior guard, Shelby Boyd, summed up the team's outlook by saying "I just like to play for the competition and for fun". She showed her skill and ball handling ability in every game. Her motto was, "When I step on to the court, I'm ready to play, and if you're playing against me then you better be ready, too. If you're not going to compete, then I'll dominate you."

It was very frustrating to lose so many games, according to Shelby, but she and her teammates showed their sportsmanship by shaking hands after they had lost and after they had won. They continued to play hard until the buzzer sounded to end the game.

Danielle Shelton and Tiffanie Smith celebrate their victory over Oscar Smith. The girls' team played as a team during the season.

Danielle Shelton, a starting forward, was running to retrieve the ball. She was a senior this year. The team is in a huddle with Coach Danny Hill, thinking of a quick strategy to make some much needed points. It obviously paid off, since the Lady Greyhounds defeated the Oscar Smith Tigers 52-51.

Senior Shelby Boyd, #24, goes up for a lay-up against Oscar Smith. She was the captain of the team.

Boys' Basketball

This year's varsity team, coached by Coach Tony Holloway, had many close games that they lost. For several games, the team was ahead at half-time, but lost in the last few minutes of the game. Jay Clarke and Torrence Oxendine, key players for the Greyhound basketball team, were still competing in the finals for the state title when basketball season started.

Since several players came from the former Wilson High School, the team needed time to play well together.

Coach Holloway and his team strove to improve with each game.

The J.V. Basketball Team: Manager Barry Davis, Kelvin Bailey, Carlton Bowens, Ramon Whitfield, Abdul Lee, Koran Cook, Coach Earls, John Arthur, Demetrius Gardner, Anthony Hawkins, Michael Wilkins, Ricky Johnson, Tommy Pope, Damian Dickens, Co-captains Kevin Johnson, Michael Ponds, Leroy Coker, and player Lenny Wilson.

The Varsity Team: Coach Holloway, Levar Bowers, Dominique Godwin, Jamal Price, Wellington Britt, Jay Clarke, Torrence Oxendine, Jason Taylor, Quentin Saunders, Rod Richardson, Victor Johnson, Eric Pope, Roberto Pope, and Derek Wilder.

Eric Pope goes through the defense against Oscar Smith.

Wellington "Boo" Britt, a senior, fires up a shot to help the Greyhounds get the lead. Wellington was a senior.

Jay Clarke goes up against the Oscar Smith defense. He was the leading scorer for the Greyhounds.

Victor Johnson, #12, takes a three point shot. His shot went in to put the Greyhounds up three points.

Wrestling

The 1993-94 wrestling team had an unusual season. Team captains Don Goad and Joseph Stephenson both had successful individual records, but the team lost every meet.

At the beginning of the season, the team had no coach. Fortunately, Coach Darryl Williams stepped in and filled the role as coach.

Don Goad puts his opponent in a half Nelson. He was in the 130 weight class and was the team captain.

Not pictured: Harold Dubose and Coach Langston.

Indoor Track

This year the boys' and girls' indoor track team was successful. They beat two of the toughest teams in the district, Indian River and Great Bridge.

While Coach Langston was recuperating from his surgery for his aneurism after football season, Mr. Nixon and Coach Shambly stepped in for him and coached the Greyhounds during the season.

Seniors who were stand-outs were Constance Marshall, Sharonetta Rogers, Antonio

Ricks, Jeremy Glover, Harold Dubose, Kevin McMillan, Larry Staton, and Jason Earls.

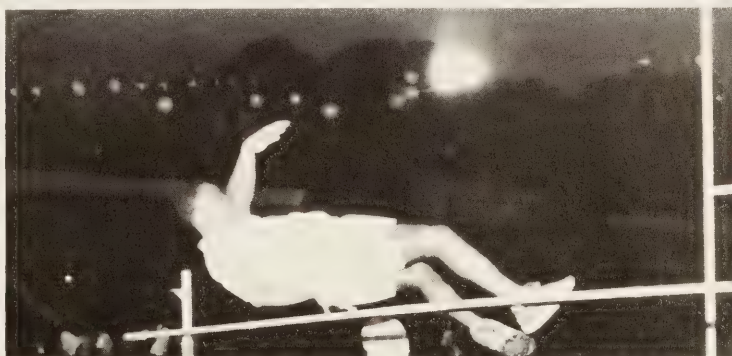

Kevin McMillan leads in the hurdles. Two lanes over, Dajuan Newsome stretched to finish the race.

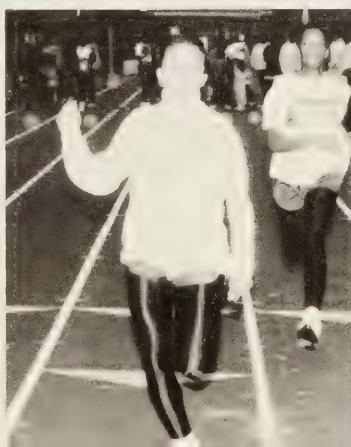

Jeremy Glover competes in the high jump. He qualified for regionals.

Harold Dubose hands the baton to Jason Earls. They competed in the 4x800 relay.

Tonya Hinton stretches out to finish the 55 meter race. She also ran in the 300 m race and 4x200 meter relay.

Makeena Stevens hands the baton to Tiesha Pickett. They were running the 4x800 meter relay race.

Constance Marshall strives to finish her leg of the race. She ran in the 4x800 meter relay race.

Time Out

At Norcom, the clubs meet during an activity period on the last Friday of every month. Some clubs also meet after school to finish business that has been started during class or during club activity period.

Some clubs are an extension of classes, such as Yearbook, Drama, FHA, FBLA, DECA, Art Club, and Band. Although band is not specifically a club, it is a huge organization. The students in band invest a considerable amount of time in and out of class, at home, at school, at games, and at competitions. The Band members usually compete several places each year, both within the city and elsewhere. The art club is another club which has grown out of a class. Those students take trips to the Smithsonian Institute and go to musical productions to evaluate the artistic design of the stage. The art club also beautifies the school for different occasions.

Other clubs are strictly in addition to the curriculum. They are not an outgrowth of a class, but are vital to the school. The baseball club seeks to improve the skills of the members.

These clubs are designed to give students an outlet that is other than the normal routine. Some students use this opportunity to shine.

Club days are Time Out from the normal routine.

Mr. Davenport shows his students a move. The students practiced very hard at the start of the year for their upcoming performances.

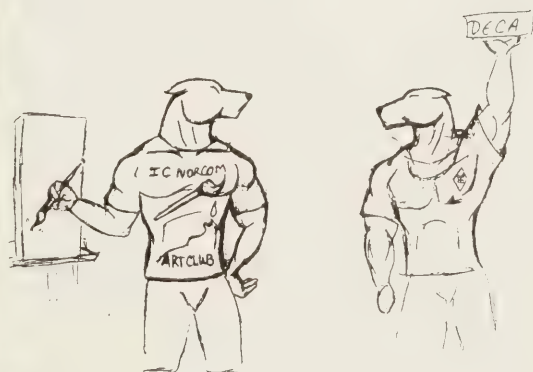

Mrs. Kates and Mrs. Batchelor slide down the slide at the state fair. The DECA students went to the state fair in September.

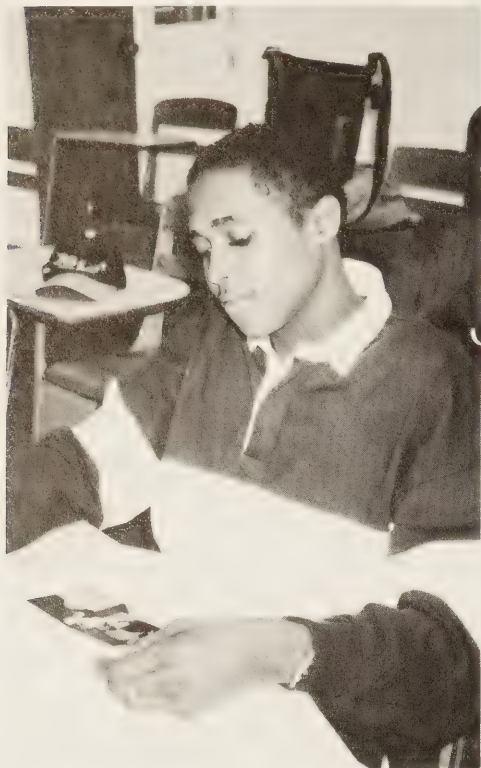

Bentley Harrell holds a sign advertising a car wash. The art club sponsored a car wash to raise money to go on trips.

Mrs. Z. Bell inducts her 1993-94 officers. She was one of the club sponsors.

Denise Stanton types copy for the homecoming section. In addition to typing, Denise also planned layouts, cropped pictures, and wrote captions.

Andra Bond evaluates pictures for a layout. He was the photo editor and he made sure that pictures that were needed were taken.

Yearbook

The purpose of the yearbook organization is to publish the high school's yearbook. The organization meets during a class period, and students sign up for the Photo Journalism class through the guidance department. This year there were twenty students in the class, all of whom were new to yearbook production.

suggestions to the photographers. The copy editor works with each committee to complete and edit the copy. The Editor is responsible for making sure each layout contains all the pictures, copy, and artwork, and for seeing that everything is properly labeled. There are also committees that are responsible for each section of the book: Senior Section with editor, Underclassmen and Faculty with editor, Sports, Academics, Community, Clubs, and Student Life.

Lenora Deberry crops a picture. She took pictures, but also helped work in her group to complete work and make a deadline.

Andre Scott and Mrs. Welsh smile even though things are hectic. There were several tense moments in the class because work had to be completed on time.

Mr. Davenport directs the band during a run through of the program right before the first game of the season. He climbed on a ladder to direct the national anthem and to direct the band during the game.

Members of the brass section of the band stand in place and play. The band performed at several competitions in addition to all of the football games during the long football season.

Tara Moore and Richard Trotter high step during a half time performance. They and the rest of the band looked dazzling during performances.

Music

Rika Johnson and Tremaine Williams carry the banner for the band. Saber Girl Renetria Barnes led the banner girls, the majorettes, and the dance girls to the sideline.

Majorette Jernai Williams marches in front of the brass section. Marching behind her were Daniel Dixon, Harold Wilson, Dhati Smith and John James.

At the end of a song, dance girl Shawnese Preuitt and drum major Michael Ebron stand at a halt. The dance girls were featured in "Boogie Nights".

The Orchestra: Mrs. Sorrell, Lynette Terrell, Chara Lewis, Sherri Lamb, Shelly Lamb, Candace Black, Sabrina Brooks, Nicole Boyd, Kim Hasty, Janeen Perry, and Dana Willis.

Time To Take A Look

The student body at I. C. Norcom High School is large and culturally diverse. There are approximately 1200 students who currently attend Norcom. Students are from very different backgrounds and are from all over the city. Students come from neighborhoods such as Truxton, Cavalier Manor, Prentis Park, Shea Terrace, Academy Park, Dale's Homes, Parkview, and Maplewood Park.

Some students have lived in several different places, and some students have lived in Portsmouth their whole lives. Students have moved or transferred from New York, New Jersey, North Dakota, Delaware, Maryland, Florida, Georgia, and Pennsylvania. There are also students from different countries that stay in Portsmouth to get a taste or feel for the American way of life. For example, Vanessa Perez attended Norcom this year. She was an exchange student from Mexico. Neil Finlay was an exchange student who originally came from Australia. Students at Norcom accept and welcome others to the school for the opportunity to learn and participate in school activities. These kinds of opportunities help students to think of other places in the world besides their home towns.

Many new friendships have developed because of the closing of Cradock High School and the former Wilson High School. Many of the students who attended these schools in the past came to Norcom in the last two years. They became part of the Greyhound family.

The students have a variety of hair styles, looks, poses, personalities, opinions, and expressions. In the next few pages, the Greyhounds will be presented.

It is now time to take a look at the Greyhounds.

Looking alert during a Chemistry lab are Curtis Felton, Don Goad, wwwwwwwww, and wwwwwwwww. They were doing a lab which was extended into the RISE period.

Mrs. Morgan poses with Julian Jackson and wwwwwwwww. Mrs. Morgan organized Homecoming and recruited students to help with ushering, speaking, and passing out programs.

Coach Warren quickly confers with Jermaine Granger, Reggie Demps, Larry Staton, Terry Ricks, and other football players during the Homecoming game while Coach Langston counsels the defensive players. The football team worked toward one goal at a time on its journey to the State Championship title.

Time's Up

The time has come to say goodbye. It's about the time when everyone vows to keep in touch, visit and send pictures. Whether it's forever or just for a summer. It's about time to put to use all we've learned. It's about time for some money to be earned.

We'll all miss each other. We'll miss all the teachers and friends we've made as well as standing by the side entrance after school and using it for shade.

Underclassmen will adjourn for a summer, and will return a grade higher. Before long they'll be seniors and they'll be leaving on their way to a life of their own. The time is drawing near.

Some of us don't have to wait. For seniors, it's time to leave the shelter of a four-year home and enter into the real world and make a home for themselves. They'll leave the nest in search of their own identities. Many will go off to college and continue their educations. Others will join the workforce. Whatever they do, we want them to know, we are behind them and they have the support of their Alma-Mater--I.C. Norcom High School.

Regardless of what grades we were in we had fun. We had hard times, we had life-altering experiences, some better than others, but we made it through one way or another, together and individually, each with separate ideals and all with a common dream.

After the final exams, the halls are clear. Teachers worked the week after exams and graduation to pack things up for the summer and finalize student records.

Erica Webb waves good-bye to her friend. They went home for the summer vacation.

Rebecca Dennard, Lamonte Smith, Chanda Yarbrough, Terril Glover, Jason Earls, Kevin Mapp, Antonio Ricks, and Douglas Bryant stand together in front of the new sign. They showed their Greyhound pride.

Lockers are being cleaned out because of the closing of the school year. They will be ready for the next generation of Greyhounds.
